W. JOHNSTONE WALKER will resume business in his old stand, the Manchester House, and is having the store painted and renovated. He intends opening up for business on Friday, the 27th inst. His advertisement appears in another column.

About three years ago a squaw got some repairs done to a wagon in one of the shops in town, and the other day she called and paid the bill. This is an act of honesty worth recording, and the example set by this dusky lady might be followed by the white man with profit to his creditors.

Messrs. McClelland & Smith, of the Crescent Creamery, Calgary, have received an order for 25,000 pounds of their creamery butter for shipment to the old country market. They sent out samples of their product to the various dealers and commission men, and the result has been the above large order.

On Monday last Brigadier Clibborn, of the Salvation army, in company with Isaac Cowie, drove out to Stony Plain. He expressed himself as being much pleased with that part of the country. He left for Toronto on Tuesday's train very favorably impressed with what he has seen in this district. If it is decided to bring the overseas colony to Canada, he thinks the location will be in the Edmonton district.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has just had completed at Montreal after many months of labor, two special military or war trains, which comprise fourteen cars for the men, two cooking cars, two Pullman cars for the officers, two cars for wines and stores, and two dining cars. The officers cars are fitted up in luxurious style, and contain state-rooms, lavatories, smoking-rooms etc. Each train consists of eleven cars and engine, and has ample accommodation for nearly four hundred. With these fast war trains, the C. P. R. expects to be able to cover the distance from the Atlantic to the Pacific in five and a half days.

LAST week the good conduct stars for the men of this division of the N. W. M. Police were awarded to the men entitled to them and are to be worn on the left arm above the elbow. Twelve of the force are entitled to one star each, and four are entitled to two each. The badges for last year's rifle and revolver practice of the N. W. M. Police arrived last week. Sergt. Major Flintoff having made the best score in both matches last year is the happy possessor of both badges.

THE board of trade wishes to collect statistics of this year's crop, and would be thankful to the farmers if they would help them by communicating with the secretary, Isaac Cowie, sending him the names of parties traveling with threshing machines in their neighborhood, so that he could get them to collect the required information. These statistics are of great importance to the board in their endeavor to get a reduction of the freight rates and every farmer in the district is directly interested in assisting them to get the fullest information possible.

MESSRS. WILKINS, Perches, Oliver and Anthony, who have been out to the Jasper Pass prospecting all summer, returned to town Tuesday afternoon. They report having a good trip, their horses stood the work well, one got mired in a muskeg, two died from sickness, and two got estray. All the party enjoyed good health and look well after their trip. They found the trails very rough and some of the rivers dangerous to cross and at one place they had to build a bridge before they could cross. Fortunately the stream was narrow enough for them to find trees long enough to make stringers and by fastening them on one shore they let them swing in the current and lodge on the opposite bank. It took them three days to build it but when completed it was perfectly safe for them to take their outfit over and it will be there for future use. The party enjoyed some good sport while in the mountains hunting mountain sheep and saw plenty of traces of bear, but did not get any. On their way in they met Mr. Loring, of the Washington natural history bureau, near the Jasper House. He is collecting specimens of any new varieties of small animals that he can find there. Dan Noyes, jr., is with him and he intends remaining there for some time yet. Dan Noyes, sr., was away prospecting for gold at the head waters of the Macleod river and his son thought he must have struck something worth while as he intended being back several days before the party saw them. After arriving at the mountains by way of the Yellow Head pass the party turned south to within a few miles of Canoe river, travelling altogether about 550 miles from here. Before coming home they staked out a mica claim which they think will prove very valuable. They intend returning again next spring.

THE VISIT OF THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR OF QUEBEC.

The Hon. J. A. Chapleau, Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, came in on Monday's train, accompanied by Madame Chapleau, Mr. Justice Rouleau, Ex-Lieutenant-Governor Royal and A. Kleczkowski, the French consul-general in Canada, and were met at the depot by Messrs. Roy, Picard, Royal, Prince, and Benoit, who welcomed them to Edmonton. The family of Hon. Joseph Adolphe Chapleau was one of the earliest French families to settle in Canada. In Terrebonne, Quebec, where they first settled the family is still prominent. Mr. Chapleau having represented that constituency for several years in both the local and Dominion houses. After becoming premier of the Quebec assembly he entered the Dominion house and was appointed secretary of state in the year 1882. In 1892 he was appointed lieutenant-governor of Quebec, by Sir John Abbott's administration. On Tuesday the party were driven out to St. Albert to visit the mission accompanied by Father Lacombe. On their arrival the mission they were welcomed by the Fathers and invited to take lunch in the convent by the Lady Superior. After lunch they paid a visit to the school, where they were entertained by the children, and presented with bouquets, after which speeches were made by the visitors. The party then took their leave and returning to Edmonton they made an inspection of the new hospital with which they were greatly pleased. They then left Father Lacombe at his palace and returned to their private car for the night. On Wednesday afternoon they went out to the Stony Plain agency where they remained over night, returning to town to-day. They had intended going up the river to see the gold dredge, but did not have time to do so. This evening a public reception will be tendered to the Lieutenant-Governor by the town council and the Societe St. Jean Baptiste, of Edmonton, at Robertson hall at 8.30 p. m.

OPENING ANNOUNCEMENT.

I have pleasure in informing my late customers and the public of Northern Alberta that on the 27th inst. I will resume business at the Manchester House, Jasper Avenue. And I take this opportunity of thanking my numerous customers for past favors, and to assure them that as in the past, it will ever be my endeavor to retain the esteemed patronage which hitherto they have so liberally accorded me.

The Manchester House (established 1886) has by general acclamation been recognized as the Store, at which the best values in the city could be obtained. And with the view of totally eclipsing past efforts, I will in the future SELL ALL THE GOODS HANDLED BY ME, AT MONTREAL PRICES, adding only a small per centage to cover freight. To enable me successfully to accomplish this, I purpose ONLY TO SELL FOR READY CASH.

I have purchased a very large and valuable assortment of Fall Goods and Novelties not hitherto introduced, all of which I will sell at prices that cannot fail to satisfy the keenest purchaser.

The Departments to which I will chiefly confine my attention will be Ladies' Dress Goods and Furnishings of every description, House Furnishings and Fancy Goods.

A visit of inspection will prove that for STYLE, QUALITY and PRICE, the Manchester House is second to none in Northern Alberta.

There is a competent Dress Maker on the Premises.

A DEAD CINCH.

During the recent visit of the premier and minister of interior to the Territories their independence of the political wiles of the ordinary politician cannot have failed to strike anyone who either happened to be on their line of travel or who followed the published accounts of their progress. This is the more noticeable—not to say remarkable—in that the general elections are closely pending, and the general result, to say the least, doubtful. If this could fairly be taken to be a new departure in Canadian political life, under which the politician would ask to be judged by his deeds and their results, and would not stoop to the common tricks of the trade to keep away from the straight issue, then truly a better day has dawned, and to the new premier must be awarded all credit. At the same time, while exercising all charity in considering the actions of public men, the fact must be recognized that legislators are responsible for the laws which they make; and that if a law is passed that is inherently contrary to accepted standards, and is passed with the full knowledge of that fact, and if its unjust portions clearly give a very great advantage to those who have passed it and who will administer it, the ordinary public must be excused if they impute motives other than honorable, as the reason of the law being passed, and if they draw disparaging conclusions from conduct which may very naturally be based on the supposed security afforded by that unjust law.
As a matter of fact a piece of legislation passed at the recent session of parliament at Ottawa, relieves the government—as far as it can be done by act of parliament—from reckoning with the people of the Northwest at the next election. Everyone has heard of the iniquities of the Dominion franchise act, and that it is in very many ways undesirable and unjust will be freely admitted, but it is a model of justice and fairness compared with the provisions of the act under which the next parliamentary elections in the Northwest will be held, unless it is amended.
Practically manhood suffrage has existed in the Northwest in both local and federal elections since the first organization of the Territories. In local and then in Dominion elections voters' lists were made up by enumerators appointed at the time of the election, and if the name of any voter did not appear on the voters' list on polling day he could have it put on before voting by taking a certain oath. No doubt this was a very loose system, but it was found to be fairly satisfactory and when the Northwest assembly for the first time passed an election ordinance a year or two ago, the principle of a voters' list amendable up to the moment of voting was confirmed. The necessity of this arose from the fact that the enumeration was in the nature of things loosely made and could not possibly be properly checked or confirmed so as to preserve the rights of the electors, either positive or negative, and therefore it was allowed to be amended up to the last possible moment. Under the present law an enumerator is appointed as before; without let or hindrance he compiles his list, putting on or leaving off whomsoever he pleases, and his list is finally completed two days before the polling. The difference between the law as it was and the law as it is, is that formerly a voter could by taking a certain oath compel the placing of his name upon the list up to the moment of voting, now he cannot compel the putting of his name upon the list at all and unless he can find the enumerator, who may be anywhere at least two days before polling, he cannot even ask that his name be put on. It is a well known fact in the eastern provinces that elections are frequently decided by the revision of the voters' lists, where both sides have been given the opportunity to force their respective claims. A law which would hand the compilation of the voters' lists into the hands of irresponsible and partizan enumerators would win nine-tenths of the eastern constituencies for the government candidate under any circumstances. And yet that is the law which is in force in the Northwest to-day, introduced by the minister of interior and pushed through by the help of his colleagues in both commons and senate, against the most active opposition and in the light of the fullest information.

No wonder that under such circumstances the legitimate requests of the people of the Northwest receive scant consideration. In this connection it should not be forgotten that the sitting members for the Territories were a party to this attempt to legislate themselves into another term.

NORTHWEST ASSEMBLY.

REGINA, Sept. 10th, '95.

Bills were introduced: By Insinger to repeal ordinance 12 of 1892 respecting veterinary surgeons; by Simpson to amend the statute and hides ordinance; by Bannerman to amend the ordinance respecting con-troverted elections so as to allow an appeal from the judge to the full court.

Neff moved the second reading of the bill to amend and consolidate the statute labor and fire districts ordinance. He explained that the principal object of the bill was to make the law work more smoothly, the only new principle introduced being the control given a public meeting over the location of the works of a district, and the appointment of the overseer as weed inspector under the weed's ordinance. Other amendments might be made in committee. In proof of the value of the statute labor districts already organized he mentioned that 36 districts had done over 3,000 days work, equal in money value to the government grant in aid of public works in any two electoral districts, and proportionately very much more than the amount of statute labor done in the four rural municipalities.

The bill to provide for the better auditing of the public accounts of the Territories was discussed in committee.

Haultain said that the adoption of the provisions of the bill would not entail any extra expense upon the Territories. Replying to Clinkskill he said that it was impossible to lay the public accounts up to the opening of the assembly on the table of the assembly during that session. The accounts of one year could only be laid before the succeeding assembly, as long as the necessary principle of only expending money on vote of the assembly was observed. If the vote of the preceding year were extended and the accounts closed say on July 1st, the accounts could be laid before the assembly if it met in August or September, but the expenditure necessarily incurred between July 1st and the voting of the year's supplies by the assembly would have to be on the sole responsibility of the executive which would be altogether objectionable and contrary to the principle of executive responsibility.

The premier and minister of interior occupied seats in the assembly room for a short time during the discussion.

Haultain asked for an adjournment of the house, it is understood to allow the executive to interview the ministers on the vexed question of the relief granted in the Regina district last fall.

REGINA, Sept. 11th, '95.

Mowat—Eakin got an order of the house for all correspondence between the executive committee and the minister of interior respecting relief of settlers last fall.

Fearon introduced a bill to amend the ordinance respecting the Medicine Hat General Hospital.

Bannerman introduced a bill to amend the ordinance respecting the Calgary general hospital.

A long and hot debate took place in committee of the whole on chattel mortgages.
The bill prohibited mortgages on crops before they were sown or planted except for seed grain.

Gillis moved in amendment that mortgages on crop growing or to be grown be invalid except for seed grain, and except in the case of crop mortgages now existing for which new crop mortgages might be substituted.

The committee finally agreed to allow existing crop mortgages to be substituted until the end of 1896, after which date any crop mortgage except for seed grain would be invalid.

On the statute labor bill in committee of the whole.
Reid suggested that more than two or more townships might be allowed to unite for statute labor purposes.

Neff said that the plan had been tried and found unworkable.

Oliver asked that a part of a township be allowed to form a labor district. A single overseer could not in all cases superintend the work in a whole township, unless he could the work was likely to be defective. By bringing two or three rural roads through a township under the one management a spirit of opposition might be aroused that would be injurious. Where this did not occur no harm was done, but it would be well to provide for cases where it did occur, by allowing the division of the township. In any case the people at one side of a township could not under the present law be compelled to work on roads at the other side of the township.

REGINA, Sept. 12th, '95.

Dill presented a petition from a township in Wolsley municipality asking to withdraw from the municipality and form a statute labor and fire district.

Fearon moved the second reading of the bill to amend the ordinance respecting the Medicine Hat general hospital. The amendment provided for the directors borrowing money on the security of the hospital property. The hospital had been built by private means and it had been necessary to contract debts on the personal responsibility of the directors. Under the amendments it would be possible to consolidate the debt and carry it at a low rate of interest.
There was also an amendment to strike out the provision enabling the hospital to hold property of an actual value of $10,000 and substitute an actual holding of $100,000.
The property of the hospital was at present valued at over $30,000. There was also an amendment to allow subscribers to vote by proxy at the annual meetings.

Haultain said he had some doubt as to the advisability of allowing vote by proxy in the case of an institution not run for profit, but if full liberty of amendment were allowed in committee he would not object to the second reading.

Tims moved the second reading of a bill to amend the master and servants ordinance.
The amendment was to extend the time at present allowed a servant of 30 days after leaving service in which to take proceedings against his master to three months, as 30 days had been found too short.

Bannerman moved the second reading of the bill to amend the ordinance respecting the Calgary general hospital. Last year the Calgary council granted $10,000 towards a general hospital at Calgary. The hospital board had plans drawn of such building as they desired, but the estimate of cost was about $30,000. They had reduced plans made bringing down the estimated cost to $15,000. To meet the difference between the amount in hand and the estimated cost the board desired borrowing powers.

In committee of the whole on the bill respecting stallions running at large, a discussion took place as to whether they should or should not run at large in stock districts. Critchley held that they should not and Lineham held that they should.
Several other members took part and Haultain asked that the clause stand over for further consideration.

In committee of the whole respecting bills of sale, a clause giving the governor-in-council power to decide where registration offices should exist was added and other sections of the bill stood until next week.

REGINA, Sept. 13th, '94.

Insinger asked for a return respecting a well boring machine supplied to the district of Wallace during the life of the last assembly.

Haultain's consolidated school bill was down for second reading but he asked for postponement as the bill was not ready.

The new bill respecting veterinary surgeons to replace the veterinary ordinance of 1892 was considered in committee. The former bill provided for the organization of the veterinary profession in the Territories on the same basis as other professions, that is the registration of actual practitioners, and the subsequent admission to practice of other persons holding certain qualifications, or passing an examination held by a council elected by the registered practitioners. The council had never been organized and consequently new practitioners could not be registered, which was not the purpose of the ordinance. The new bill provided for the licensing of veterinary surgeons who had been practicing in the Territories for a year previous to the passing of the ordinance and of veterinary surgeons holding a diploma or certificate from anybody empowered by law to grant such diploma or certificate in any part of Her Majesty's dominions. Licenses to be granted by the lieutenant-governor-in-council. Persons practicing for reward without license—with certain exceptions—to be liable to a fine not exceeding $25. A discussion arose as to rights acquired under the old ordinance.

Oliver held that as the old ordinance had been invalid by reason of its own provisions it should not affect rights acknowledged by the present bill.

Haultain held that such of its provisions as were not invalid should be acknowledged governing in respect to the new bill.

In accordance with this view the bill was amended so that only persons who had been practicing for the past three years could receive licenses under it.

A section permitting licensed veterinaries of the adjoining provinces to practice in the Territories without license was struck out on motion of the mover of the bill, Mr. In-singer.

The bill respecting the Medicine Hat general hospital was discussed in committee of the whole and the bill was amended so that instead of directors fixing the voting qualifications of subscribers at will, it was fixed by the bill so that all life members and all subscribers of $5 and upwards have a vote. The provision to permit voting by proxy was struck out on motion of Mowat, who thought that where non-residents had no financial interest at stake and were not likely to have any personal knowledge of the management it was not good policy to give them possibly a controlling influence in the conduct of the establishment.

The bill respecting the Calgary hospital was passed through committee of the whole.

IT LOOKS LIKE A RE-ADJUSTMENT.

Speaking at Qu'Appelle station on the 27th August, Mr. N. F. Davin, M. P., said: "One matter of discussion during last session was the desirability of taking part of Eastern Assiniboia into Western Assiniboia. I have taken no part in this, condemning, as I do, the practice of taking people from one constituency and placing them in another without consulting their wishes. I think it would be very unwise. The impression conveyed to me, also to Mr. Daly and Mr. McDonald, indicates that part of Eastern Assiniboia would like to come into my constituency. There was one adverse opinion of the kind, i. e., that they would hardly approve of any change unless there was additional representation. Some individual opinions were sent that the eastern bounds of Western Assiniboia should extend to Grenfell, but I do not think we could ever persuade the government to do this. I will not take any steps in the matter of swelling my constituency without consulting you on the matter. I do not think that Regina or Moose Jaw would think it right to take in such an addition to my constituency without their being consulted. I have no opinion, no perdition, nor desires on the matter. The government and myself will be governed by the desires of the people affected. All I can say is that should the change take place, and should I after the next election be your representative, I will endeavor to act in your interests as I have done in the past for my present constituency."—Exchange.

NO CONFERENCE BETWEEN BOWELL AND GREENWAY.

Free Press. Ever since the arrival of Mackenzie Bowell in the city there has been more or less curiosity to know when the reported conference between himself and Premier Greenway on the school question was to take place. This morning a Free Press reporter asked Sir Mackenzie the question point blank and received the definite answer that he had not arranged an interview with Mr. Greenway, nor was there any intention to have one.

CANADIAN CHEESE IN ENGLAND.

Following is the evening Telegram's special cable, dated London, Sept. 11: "Several morning newspapers to-day contain an authorized statement from the Canadian government that the statement published in the North British Agriculturalist, that a portion of the Canadian cheese shipped to the old country market is made of cheddar cheese is absolutely without foundation. At Warrington, which imports about one-fifth of Canadian cheese exported to Great Britain, it is affirmed that they never found a box of filled cheese in all their consignments. Importers here urge the closer supervision of all through shipments of cheese from the United States as a remedy, as the filled cheese to which the North British Agriculturalist refers is supposed to have come from the United States via Canada.

GENERAL NEWS.

A dispatch from the Nor'-Wester says: Before a very large gathering of horsemen at Oshkosh, Wis., from all over the country Nellie Sharper, a Calgary mare, captured the 2.24 trot or pace, going her fastest heat 2.18½.

Free Press: "Give us time," requests Sir Mackenzie Bowell at Edmonton, and we will do all that we possibly can to develop the country here." To this the West answers,—Give us people, turn on a stream of immigration, and the development of our country will take care of itself.

Free Press: Mr. Wallace says his visit to the Northwest has nothing to do with the school question. He is here on business connected with his department, that of the customs; perhaps also for a little recreation, and to extend his knowledge of the country and its conditions. We venture to express the hope that during his visit Mr. Wallace will remember that he is something more than a minister of a department. As a member of the government, although not in the cabinet, he is responsible for the good administration of the general affairs of the country. We trust he will take as good a view of the Northwest as his opportunities will permit, in which case he may see how urgent is the necessity for a greater population. Having seen this, we further trust he will urge upon his colleagues of the government the duty of adopting more vigorous measures for the promotion of immigration than have prevailed for the past eight or ten years.

Free Press: The premier gives us to understand that wherever he went he was asked for something. In touring through the West every man he met wanted a railway, to say nothing of bridges and little things of that kind. Returning to Winnipeg, he was asked for an appropriation to deepen St. Andrew's rapids, and we see that he is wanted at Rat Portage in order that he may be convinced of the necessity of improving the navigation of Rainy River. Perhaps he is getting tired of these importunities. But it is a condition of his position that he is expected to listen to them; and he is expected besides to have the patience to consider their urgency, and to act promptly on those that are important enough to deserve immediate attention. That is what he is premier for. If unequal or not inclined to the task, there is always the possibility that the people may retire him.

What must it be in Manitoba and the Northwest when we here in Ontario, and doubtless it is the same in more eastern parts of the Dominion, are kept on the tenderhooks of anxiety about the presence or absence of frost night after night or one or two degrees more or less of it? The first thing we turn to in our morning papers, and we do it with fear and trembling, is the reports from Manitoba and the Northwest. We congratulate our fellow-countrymen in all the west upon their splendid prospect and hope they may be all realized. We fancy that we can see the stretching, waving fields of fast ripening grain, and we shall rejoice with them when they can go to bed and sleep o' nights in triumphant defiance of Jack Frost. As we write harvesting throughout Manitoba and the Northwest is general, and before this can reach our readers the fate of the crops and of a great many other things besides for another season will have been decided for better or worse and to all appearance for better and not for worse. If for better, as we according to our poor judgment think of it, what an outbreak of thanksgiving should go up not from our great west only, but from the whole Dominion.—Canada Presbyterian.

WHAT THE PREMIER SAID IN WINNIPEG.

In the course of his remarks in his speech at the public meeting Mr. Bowell said: He had desired to know from personal observation the character of the northern portion of Manitoba and the Northwest Territories. Having had this desire for a number of years, he had taken advantage, after a somewhat tedious session, of the opportunity of a trip with his friend, Hon. Mr. Daly, who was on an inspecting tour through the Indian reserves. He had been more than gratified to witness the progress made in British Columbia, the Northwest Territories and Manitoba in connection with the large expenditure for the purpose of christianizing and educating the natives of a great portion of the Northwest. It had been a marvel to him, a wonder that he could scarcely comprehend; he had not had the remotest idea that the younger portion of the Indian tribes, under ecclesiastics, both Protestant and Catholic, could possibly have achieved such results.

Referring particularly to his trip from here to Prince Albert, he said: Having on his trip down the Saskatchewan travelled for ten days, sleeping under tents each night, he had come to the conclusion that the out-door exercise and sleeping in the open air, had done him at least no harm. He had been charged with shooting out of season, but he claimed the privileges of natives, for the time, to shoot whatever was necessary for food. After all that he had read in the past, lectures by clergymen and others, having visited that portion of the Northwest Territories, he had come to the conclusion that half of its advantages and value had not yet been told. The Saskatchewan country would, before many years rolled round, be the home of hundreds of thousands of prosperous people. The land at Edmonton, Fort Saskatchewan, Victoria and on the Indian reserves was such as to lead any man to the conclusion that industrious people who would settle in that section of country would secure for themselves not merely a livelihood, but a competency. He would go home with a much larger view of the requirements of that country. (Applause.)

To a reporter of the Tribune he said: "While at Edmonton we drove to the Indian reserve, 15 miles out, and found them engaged in harvesting large crops. People down here have the idea that the country is too far north and that frost will do too much damage to make farming profitable, but we found that frost is no more damaging there than here. The crops in the immensity of their yield are simply a matter of astonishment."

The train was at this time running through the big wheat fields east of Portage and Sir Mackenzie Bowell said the fields in the north looked just as productive as those to be seen on all hands.

"Has anything definite been learned as to the finding of petroleum at Athabasca Landing?"

"There is every indication of petroleum, but as yet only the preliminary operations for its location have been carried on. There is every reason to believe petroleum will be found there in paying quantities."

"What do you think, then, of the future of all this northern country?"

"It is past thinking. I have been more than ever assured of the greatness into which the whole Northwest is rapidly developing. This country has a grand future before it."

"How do the settlers feel in the Edmonton district?"

"They are all sanguine, and believe that they have one of the best parts of the continent. They are doing well and everything points to rapid development. The feeling of satisfaction and progress among the settlers has been one of the most pleasing features of the trip."

"I was simply surprised beyond my imagination at its greatness," was the premier's reply, when asked what was his impression of the Northwest country.

"The resources are wonderful," he continued, "and when it becomes known, as it should, an immense population is bound to flock that way."

"Don't the people seem to want railroads out there?"

"Why everyone wants a railroad for himself everywhere you go, but it will not be long before the necessities of that country will be seen."

A REVELATION.

In speaking of his trip from here to Prince Albert to a Free Press reporter Mr. Daly says: "I wish to say here that, this long journey was a revelation to us of many things which we were before ignorant of. We passed through the most richly timbered, best watered, and finest grazing country I have ever seen. I thought that my previous journeys over the Northwest had given me some idea of the vastness and extent of the country, but I never realized before how great it really was. When one remembers that we were simply on the verge of a very rich territory which extended back for a hundred and fifty miles and south for fifty or sixty one can form some idea of the immense area that is yet to be populated. This is the country for mixed farming, and I cannot imagine any surroundings more favorable to the man with a wife and family who is looking for a home and occupation, than this territory offers, and which is to be had for the asking."

The meeting on the 10th inst. of the Canadian branch of the Imperial Federation League took steps to merge itself into the British Empire League now being organized in Great Britain. The constitution of the new league was approved and final action deferred until the new organization is definitely launched.

A GOOD APPOINTMENT.

Regina Leader.

It is with no small pleasure we announce that Mr. A. E. Forget has become Indian Commissioner. It was not only anomalous but undesirable that the one officer should be Deputy Superintendent of Indian Affairs and Commissioner as well. It was anomalous for it reduced the office here to absurdity. Mr. Reed, Commissioner, would do something as Commissioner which would have to be supervised or criticized by Mr. Reed, Deputy Supt.-General. It was undesirable for the above reason, and because it placed too much power in the hands of one man. It provided a large department here in Regina practically without a head. The new Commissioner is a man known to all of us. As a private person he is not only above reproach and free from the most trivial stain—he has the enviable power of fixing affection and winning esteem. As an officer he is in the front rank of efficiency. When Clerk of the Assembly he was invaluable as a guide, both to the members of the sprouting legislature as well as to the Lieutenant-Governor. He is one of the best informed men in Canada on constitutional procedure and political questions. It seemed a waste of power when he was transferred to the Indian department. There, however, he at once distinguished himself by his assiduity and capacity for detail, and he soon became by reason of sympathy and knowledge master of his work. No better appointment could be made and we echo what the Premier said on Tuesday when announcing it to him: "Better late than never."

LORD ROSEBURY WINS ST. LEGER WITH SIR VISTO.

London, Eng., Sept. 11.—(Special cable).—The race for the St. Leger stakes at the Doncaster meeting to-day, was won by Sir Visto, owned by Lord Rosebery. An immense concourse of people witnessed the great race and the victory created a great outburst of popular enthusiasm for the victor.

Sir Visto won the Derby this year.

Mr. W. M. G. Singer's Telescope was second and Lord Brassey's Butterfly third.

Eleven horses competed. The winner, the bay colt Sir Visto, is by Bercaldine.—Free Press.

SILVER QUESTION.

EDITOR BULLETIN.

DEAR SIR: I notice an article in your issue of August 26th, on the silver question and fearing that the conclusion of the writer might mislead some, I venture a reply. In closing it says: "Hence it appears that the 412½ grain silver dollar carried at a 16 to 1 ratio would be worth about 50 cents."

When through the insane action of George III the American colonies determined to sever their political connection with Great Britain they also determined to have a different monetary system, so instead of the pound as the unit of value they chose a dollar, and it was a silver dollar, this was the unit of value, the final money of account coined freely with gold at a ratio of, I believe, 16 to 1. It was not something to be measured by something else, it was the measure and remained so up to 1873. Then it was demonetized, and commenced the gradual appreciation of gold, until in effect we now have a 200 cent gold dollar, a most dishonest dollar, I think. It is about double in its purchasing power, thereby doubling the debts of the debtor, and is the cause of the hard times all over the world. Some men talk as though this great depression was an accident. There is a great cause, and it is human greed and selfishness. We are not asking for something new but a return to that which has been, something time honored and time tried. Remonitise silver, destroy this money monopoly, and hope again shall smile upon the world and she will yield her rich abundance for the good of all men.

ALLAN PROCTOR.

Lieut.-Col. Wyndham, who is now in the Northwest Territories, writes to the Canadian Gazette on the subject of an Imperial Remount Depot in Canada: "In June, 1894, while in England, I submitted my views on the advantages of such a depot in Canada, but as yet nothing has come of it. I now suggest that the Imperial Government enter into an agreement with the Dominion Government by which the latter will have in training from one to two thousand horses, fit for artillery and cavalry remounts, in such proportion as they may think fit—the Imperial Government to take each year at least one-third of such trained horses for remounts for India and elsewhere. It would mean to the Dominion that each man in her military schools and mounted police would have two horses to look after and train instead of one, and the Dominion would have a reserve of horses to draw on in case of emergency, as well as the Home Government, which, as the mounted police force is now being reduced, may be very necessary. These horses could be herded at a merely nominal cost on the prairie. The Imperial Government would only require a competent inspector, appointed by them to see that fit horses are purchased and trained."
